- ASSA ABLOY Trainer Rodger Schmidt Also Recognized -

Phoenix, AZ – May 21, 2015 – In Las Vegas last month, Adams Rite and Securitron hit big, taking home four prestigious industry awards. ASSA ABLOY trainer Rodger Schmidt was also recognized for his exceptional work in training and education.

Security Sales & Integration hosted its inaugural Most Valuable Product (MVP) Awards program, showcasing how important products and technologies are to the success of security integration companies. Awards were given in subcategories from the following product types: Access Control, Business Operations, Central Station/Monitoring, Fire/Life Safety, Home Controls, Installation Aids, Intrusion Detection, Misc. Security Products, Security Apps and Video Surveillance.

The Securitron R100 Surface Mounted Wireless Reader was recognized as the MVP for Access Control Panels, Keypads & Readers, and The EcoPower Power Supply from Securitron was awarded MVP for Miscellaneous Access Products.

Security Products launched its first Govie Awards, honoring outstanding government security products. Adams Rite was awarded a Platinum Govie for its Steel Hawk 4300 Electrified Deadlatch in the Locks, Doors, Hardware category. Securitron also took home a Platinum Govie in the Green/Sustainable Solutions and Products category for the new EcoPower Power Supply, along with a Gold Govie for the GL1 Electromechanical Gate Lock in the Locks, Doors, Hardware category.

Rodger Schmidt, Product Trainer for ASSA ABLOY Group brands Securitron, Adams Rite and HES, was also honored by the Security Industry Association (SIA) with the Sandy Jones Volunteer of the Year Award, for his outstanding industry contributions.

“These awards are a reflection of the innovative, hard work that our engineers and employees have put forth, the countless hours and times they’ve gone back to the drawing board to develop the best possible product," said Michael Webb, VP of New Product Development, EMS & OEM Group, ASSA ABLOY.
